Business Analyst

PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

Senior Business Analyst with extensive experience supporting real-time streaming market data pricing platforms, financial data distribution, requirements analysis, QA/UAT, production validation, and technology modernization within financial-services environments. Proven track record partnering with business, operations, technology, database, DevOps, and infrastructure teams to gather requirements, document functional specifications, validate data quality, support release readiness, and improve operational resiliency. Experienced supporting Oracle-based pricing distribution, REST API modernization initiatives, production monitoring, incident investigation, ServiceNow, Jira, Confluence, and SQL-oriented analysis. Strong background working in highly regulated financial environments supporting mission-critical market-data and trading-related systems.

WORK EXPERIENCE

GRESHAM

Senior Business Analyst / DevOps Release Coordinator

Apr 2017 – Feb 2026 | Federal Reserve Bank of New York | On-site

- Supported modernization of a real-time streaming market data pricing platform, transitioning distribution from Oracle consumer views toward REST API payloads and service-based access.
- Assisted cloud migration validation by comparing legacy Oracle-based data access patterns with emerging REST API delivery models.
- Supported enterprise modernization initiative involving requirements analysis, workflow review, and platform transformation that reduced custom code, improved maintainability, and leveraged platform out-of-box functionality.
- Partnered with stakeholders to analyze requirements and support modernization activities involving legacy workflow analysis, data-load redesign, testing, and stakeholder coordination.
- Supported Oracle-based real-time streaming market data pricing distribution using master and consumer-specific views for downstream trading and financial applications.
- Analyzed stakeholder requirements, data needs, and Oracle view outputs used by downstream systems.
